Here's a super set of instruments to awaken your child's interest in music!

A toucan conductor to beat time! Children can compose their first tunes with the 4 note keyboard on his beak (do, re, mi, fa). And the 4 little notes on his tummy offer lots of different lullabies. They also light up the keys on the keyboard. The toucan's crest is made of soft, flexible silicone. It will soothe baby's little teeth, so they'll love putting it in their mouth.

There are 3 coloured plastic rings on the handle, for baby to shake or slide around.

You'll also find 2 percussion instruments!

The maracas have clear plastic holders at each end containing lots of brightly coloured beads. Children love watching the beads leap around when they shake the maracas!

The tambourine-ring is decorated with little cymbals. The pretty sound is reminiscent of someone jingling coins in their pocket!

These lightweight instruments are just right for baby's little hands. They are made of hard plastic so that they don't break easily. Baby will enjoy beating time with them and they are sure to awaken the musician sleeping within! Slow, fast, regular or jerky - baby will get to know different rhythms and even learn to dance, as their music sense is awakened.

Not only is this set lots of fun - it also develops baby's hearing acuity, field of vision, dexterity and fine motor skills too!

Suitable for children from 3 months.
